A I am responsible for the profit delivery of the brand to the company and the entire cross functional team, which includes new product development, product launches and all of our marketing, which would include packaging, advertising and promotions.

Q Anything else?

A I would say that I am also responsible for trade promotions, so where our products are sold, pricing.

Q As part of your job responsibilities, is it important for you to be aware of the way in which the Smart Ones products are sold and marketed?

A Yes.

Q When do you do to make yourself knowledgeable about that?

A Could you repeat that?

Q What do you do to make yourself knowledgeable about the Smart Ones brand and the products sold in connection with that brand?

A We study syndicated data to see the performance of the brand, we have reports from all of our cross functional teams, including our sales force, we read data that's related to measuring the effectiveness of our marketing, which would include advertising and promotions.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q Do you do any of your work away from the office?

A Sometimes.

Q What type of work do you do away from the office?

A We do field visits with our customers, meet with our customers, see the product in the stores, we also conduct consumer research and listen to consumers.

Q Are you familiar, as a result of these visits to the entities that sell your products, with the way in which the Smart Ones products are displayed in stores?

A Yes.

Q How long have you had your current responsibilities?

A Since July of 2012.

A Yes.

Q And it indicates it's both Promark Brands, Inc. and the H.J. Heinz Company?

A Yes.

Q On a going forward basis, when I refer to Heinz, I am referring to both of those entities; can we have that understanding between us?

A Yes.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q Are you generally familiar with the history of Heinz, Mr. Gray?

A Yes.

Q Tell me what you know about the history of Heinz.

A Heinz was a company that was started in 1869 by H.J. Heinz. It was founded under the premise of being the pure food company. He began by launching condiments, sauces, relishes in clear bottles.

That company persevered and grew over the course of a hundred years, and he came to acquire not only other condiments, sauces, brands, but as well expanded into frozen products in the U.S. which include frozen potatoes, frozen meals and frozen snacks, as well as other categories around the world.

Q Are you familiar with the products that Heinz currently sells in the United States?

A Yes.

Q Could you describe some of those products?

A On the condiments and sauces side, we are strong in ketchup, vinegar, pickles, relish as well as pasta sauces, gravy.

On the frozen side, Ore-Ida frozen potatoes, Smart Ones frozen meals, frozen snacks.

Q Have you ever heard of a company called GFA Brands?

A Yes.

Q What do you know about GFA Brands?

A I know that they market products under the Smart Balance brand name.

Q Do you currently consider GFA Brands to be a competitor of Heinz?

A Not currently.

Q Why not?

A They don't compete in our categories.

Q What are the categories that you think -- strike that.

Assuming that GFA began to offer frozen products, would you consider them then to be a competitor of Heinz?

A Yes.

Q Why?

A Our products are located in the freezer case.

Q Is there a particular category of products that the Smart Ones products fall into?

A From an industry perspective, we call them frozen nutritional meals.

Q What's a frozen nutritional meal?

A They are frozen products that consumers turn to when they are trying to live a healthier lifestyle and/or trying to manage their weight.

Q Is there an overall nutritional category that are not frozen?

A I would say there are nutritional products that are not frozen.

Q Is it your understanding that if the current GFA products, do they fall into the nutritional category or not into the nutritional category?

A I would say they fall into better for you categories.

Q How does better for you categories differ from nutritional categories?

A They could likely be the same.

Q Assuming GFA began offering products in the frozen nutritional category, would you consider them to be a competitor of Heinz?

A Yes.

Q Who are the current competitors to the Smart Ones brand?

A Our primary competitors are Healthy Choice and Lean Cuisine.

Q Why do you consider them to be competitors?

A Their products are quite similar to ours both in form as well as in their composition nutritionally, which would include levels of calories, fat, sodium, et cetera.

Q Do either of those companies use the word smart as a trademark in connection with their frozen nutritional products?

A Neither of them do.

Q Does Smart Ones trademark have any meaning in the food industry other than as a Heinz trademark?

A I don't believe so.

Q What does Smart Ones mean to you?

A Smart Ones is a brand that consumers value for its nutritional quality, its quality of food in general.

It's a brand of products that are a convenient way to remain healthy and manage your weight.

Q And is the Smart Ones trademark just for one product?

A The Smart Ones trademark covers a range of product types in the freezer case.

Q Such as?

A They would include frozen meals that could be eaten for lunch or dinner, frozen breakfast items, frozen snacks and appetizers as well as frozen desserts.

Q Okay.

The court reporter is handing you what's been marked as Opposer's Exhibit 37.

Have you seen that document before?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37 was marked for identification.)

A Yes.

Q What is it?

A It's a segmentation of the different types of items that Smart Ones offers.

Q Can you describe for me the categories of products described in Exhibit 37?

A For instance, in the upper left-hand corner are the classic favorites, and that's a collection of items that are sort of more homestyle in nature, tend to have more pasta and rice and cheese, more like comfort food.

Q What about the next one?

A The next one down on the left in the middle

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

is satisfying selections. This is a line of bagged dinners that actually have 30 percent more food in them than our standard tray meals have, so it's more food for a more satisfying meal.

Q What about the next one?

A The bottom left is smart beginning, which is another name for our breakfast line that includes some tray items that are eggs and there could be scrambles or omelets or sweet breakfast items like waffles, French toast or pancakes.

The line also includes hand-held breakfast sandwiches that are English muffins, cheese, eggs and meat, and we also have a couple of other hand-held items like breakfast wraps and breakfast quesadillas.

Q What about the next one?

A On the top right-hand corner are smart creations. This is a hire priced item that tend to be more culinary recipes, also tray meals either for lunch or dinner. They tend to have more protein in them like chicken, turkey, beef.

Q The next one?

A In the middle on the right-hand side is smart anytime. These are items that are intended to be smaller portioned mini meals or snacks. They include things likes mini pizzas, quesadillas, mini cheeseburgers, chicken sliders.

Q And the last one on the page?

A On the bottom right-hand corner are smart delights. These are our dessert items. They tend to have either ice cream sundaes or cakes as dessert items.

Q Okay. I see that the sub categories include other smart designations, smart beginnings, smart creations, smart anytime, smart delights, does Heinz consider these categories to be sub brands within the Smart Ones brand structure?

A I don't know if they would be sub brands, but they are delineators that indicate to a consumer the type of product they are and/or the price.

Q Are the packaging depicted in Exhibit 37, are those fair representations of the way the packaging currently appears in the super market?

A Yes, they are.

Q Is there any distinction between the packaging that's sold in the different outlets, say for example big box stores, grocery stores, other retailers, or is it consistent across the board?

A It is fairly consistent in terms of the graphic treatment.

Q Okay.

MR. FRAELICH: Let's take a short break here off the record.

(Recess taken.)

Q Back on the record let me direct your attention to what's been marked as 37a. Let me know whether or not you have ever seen that before.

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37a was marked for identification.)

A I have.

Q What is it?

A This is a carton for a Smart Ones product called Three Cheese Ziti Marinara.

Q Is this the way the product currently appears in the market place?

A Yes.

Q This is in fact a two-page print or photograph, scan for a better word, of the front and the back of the package; is it not?

A Yes.

Q And is there anything special about this particular product?

A This particular product is actually our best seller. In fact, it is the fastest turning item in the entire frozen nutritional meal category, above anything that Lean Cuisine or Healthy Choice sells.

Q Let me direct your attention to the next exhibit, which is designated as 37b. And this is a Smart Ones package for Chicken parmesan; could you describe what that is for the record, please?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37b was marked for identification.)

A This is the carton that our Smart Ones chicken parmesan is packaged in, it has a chicken breast, spaghetti, marinara sauce and parmesan cheese on top of it.

Q Is this in the frozen nutritional category?

A Yes.

Q And let me turn your attention to the next exhibit, which appears to be in connection with angel hair marinara; could you describe that for the record, please?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37c was marked for identification.)

A This is a carton for our Smart Ones angel hair marinara. It's an angel hair pasta with a marinara sauce and some vegetables including spinach, yellow and green zuchini.

Q Is this a frozen nutritional product?

A Yes.

Q Turn your attention to the next one, which appears to be packaging for homestyle beef pot roast; do you see that?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37d was marked for identification.)

A Yes.

Q Could you identify that for the record, please?

A This is a carton, the package is our homestyle beef pot roast. It's a classic comfort food type dish that's got pot roast and various vegetables including carrots, green beans and potatoes.

Q And the next one, which appears to be in connection with Creamy Rigatoni with Broccoli and Chicken; do you see that?

A Yes.

A This is also a carton for our item called

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q And last is 37f, turkey bacon melt quesadilla; do you see that?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 37f was marked for identification.)

A Yes.

Q Could you describe what that is for the record?

A This is a carton for our Smart Ones turkey bacon melt quesadilla. It's an example of one of our smart anytime items, which are smaller meals intended for a snack or a mini meal.

Q With respect to the packaging depicted in Exhibits 37a through 37f, are those all in the frozen nutritional category?

A Yes.

Q Is the packaging embodied in Exhibits 37a to 37f representative generally of the current packaging for the Smart Ones product?

A Yes.

Q Does the Smart Ones trademark appear on each of the exhibits in 37a to 37f?

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

A Yes.

Q Do you ever sell a Smart Ones product that doesn't have the Smart Ones trademark on it?

A No, we would not. We do not.

Q Are you familiar with the term SKU?

A Yes.

Q What's an SKU?

A It's an acronym that stands for stock keeping unit.

Q What is an SKU used for?

A An SKU is an individual item, so any -- an individual SKU, like three cheese ziti marinara has an SKU, it has its own number associated with it, it in In the systems of all of our customers.

Q Does each separate product have an individual SKU?

A Yes.

Q Is this SKU something only Heinz uses as part of its business?

A No, it's a standard industry term.

Q Who uses it then?

A There is a number associated with each SKU in the Heinz systems as well as in our customer's systems, those SKUs help classify the products.

Q And you use an identical SKU number as your customers do?

A Not always. Sometimes they have their own set of numbers, but they are connected to that SKU in place of the number.

Q How many -- approximately how many products or SKUs are there currently used in connection with the Smart Ones brand?

A Approximately 80.

Q Okay. And if you know, has the number of SKUs expanded or shrunken over time?

A It has expanded over time since the introduction of the brand.

Q How so?

A I would say vastly. The brand was originally introduced as a small line of products, it has since blossomed into all of the segments I described.

Q What do the Smart Ones breakfasts consist of?

A Smart Ones breakfasts consist of items that are in a tray, that would be omelettes, egg scrambles, pancakes, what we call the sweet breakfasts, that would be pancakes, French toast and waffles.

We also have hand-held items like breakfast sandwiches that are English muffins with eggs, cheese and meat in them, as well as a breakfast quesadilla and breakfast wraps that also have eggs, cheese and meat in them.

Q Are those products generally sold under the smart beginnings designation?

A Yes.

A No.

A Yes.

A Can you repeat that?

Q Are the number of products that are sold by Heinz in connection with the Smart Ones brand expanding or contracting?

A Expanding.

Q Describe how it's expanding.

A Because we have these different segments of products we like to introduce new items to -- introduce new news to the marketplace across all of them, so more segments equals more products.

Q As part of your responsibilities to be a brand manager for the Smart Ones product line, is it necessary for you to become aware of what the reputation of the brand is among your customers?

A Yes.

Q Is it necessary for you to become aware of the reputation of the brand among the retailers that sell your products?

A Yes.

Q With respect to the end users, the customers, what is your impression of the reputation of the brand among those customers?

A The reputation is very strong.

Q Why do you say that?

A Our consumers are very passionate about our products because they are convenient ways to help them stay on track with their diets, they taste good, they are high quality.

Q With respect to retailers that offer your products, do you have an understanding with respect to what their opinion is as to the reputation of the brand?

A Yes.

Q What is your understanding of that?

A Our customers greatly value our brand. We are the no. 2 brand in the marketplace, so we bring them a lot of sales.

Q What's the No. 1 brand?

A The number one brand is Lean Cuisine.

Q And what's the No. 3 brand?

A Healthy Choice.

Q I am handing you what's been marked as Exhibit 38. I will ask you to take a look at that. Do you recognize the documents contained in Exhibit 38?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 38 was marked for identification.)

A Yes.

Q What are they?

A Several pages that show variations of Smart Ones packaging over the years.

Q Over how many years would you estimate?

A I would estimate approximately ten years or more.

Q Are the pages described in Exhibit 38 representative of your opinion of the packaging that's historically been used in connection with the Smart Ones product?

A Yes, they are.

Q And were these used in the United States, to your knowledge?

A Yes, they were.

Q And historically, have you ever not used the Smart Ones trademark in connection with these products?

A There has not been a time when we have not used Smart Ones in connection with these products.

Q Are you aware of the products that are currently sold in connection with the Smart Balance trademark?

A Somewhat, yes.

Q What is your understanding of those products?

A From what I understand, they include things like oils, butter and egg products.

Q Anything else?

A That's all I am aware of.

Q And is there a particular category that you believe those products fall into using an industry term or a non-industry term?

A I would call the oils a dry grocery product, the butters are a dairy product. I am not sure what form the eggs come in.

Q Would they fall into the nutritional product category?

A They could, yes.

Q But you don't have any direct knowledge of that?

A No.

Q Do you know if GFA currently offers any frozen appetizers or frozen foods?

A I don't believe they do.

Q As a brand manager, someone who talks to the retailers and customers as part of your job responsibilities, do you consider the Smart Ones trademark and the Smart Balance trademark to be similar in appearance?

A Yes.

Q Do you consider the Smart Ones trademark and Smart Balance similar in sound?

A With respect to the first word, smart, yes.

Q Would you consider the Smart Ones and Smart Balance trademark similar in overall meaning?

A Yes, as consumers understand them.

Q Would you consider -- strike that. Do you have an understanding of the term commercial impression?

A I believe so.

Q What is your understanding of that term?

A To me, a commercial impression is how a consumer perceives something that's in marketing.

Q And do you consider the Smart Ones and the Smart Balance trademarks to have the same overall commercial impression?

A Yes.

Q Are you familiar with the term channel of trade?

A Yes.

Q What does that mean to you?

A Channel of a trade refers to the types of outlets where products are offered.

Q What is the channel of trade through which Heinz sells its Smart Ones products?

A Primarily through transitional grocery stores, but also through mass merchandisers such as Wal-Mart and Target, and club stores such as Costco.

Q When you say traditional grocery stores, give me some examples of what those are.

A Those would be stores that primarily have food that include banners like Kroger, Safeway,

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Publix, SUPERVALU.

Q What parts of United States are Smart Ones products sold in?

A They are offered throughout the entire United States.

Q With respect to the grocery stores you described, traditional grocery outlets I believe is the term you used, what percentage of Smart Ones products are sold in that outlet?

A I would estimate approximately 70 percent.

Q You indicated that there is mass merchandisers and warehouse clubs; are those the same thing or not?

A No, I would say mass merchandisers have a grocery section as well as other hard lines like electronics and clothes.

Q Give me descriptions again of what those are?

A Mass merchandisers would include stores things like Wal-Mart and Target.

Q What percentage of your sales of Smart Ones products are sold through mass merchandisers?

A Approximately 25 to maybe nearly 30 percent.

Q And then you also sell them in you indicated club stores like Costco?

A Yes.

Q What percentage of your sales are sold through club stores?

A Less than 1 percent currently.

Q If I go into one of these stores and I want to purchase a Smart Ones product, is there a particular section of the grocery store where they can be found, traditionally?

A Yes, they would be in the frozen section of the store, and they tend to be grouped together -- are always grouped together with frozen nutritional meals.

Q If I go into a Kroger tomorrow and I want to buy Smart Ones products, am I going to find Smart Ones products in a different location than I am going to find the Lean Cuisine products?

A No, they will always be close to each other.

Q Okay. What about Healthy Choice, am I going to find those in a different part of the grocery store that I would the Smart Ones products?

A No, all three would be close to each other, adjacent to each other.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q In your experience as a brand manager, is there a typical way for retailers to arrange frozen foods in frozen foods sections?

A They tend to group like products together, so all of the nutritional items are together so a consumer, when they are shopping for that, they stop in one place to find all the products that meet their needs use.

Q Let me ask you this: Am I likely to find -- are you familiar with a Swanson Hungry Man Dinner?

A Yes.

Q Am I likely to find a Swanson Hungry Man Dinner grouped with the frozen nutritional products such as Lean Cuisine, Smart Ones or Healthy Choice?

A No.

Q Why not?

A Those are meals that we would call full fat. They are not as mindful to calories and fat and sodium. They would be grouped with other like meals in a different section of the freezer.

Q Based upon your experience as brand manager and the dealings that you have with the retailers that offer your products, let's assume that Smart Balance begins selling a frozen nutritional product, where will retailers likely place that product?

A Within our section that includes Smart Ones, Healthy Choice and Lean Cuisine.

Q Is it possible those products will be placed immediately adjacent to the Smart Ones product?

A It's quite possible.

Q What is the likelihood that will occur, likely, very likely, maybe, based upon your experience?

MS. WILBERT: Objection, foundation.

A I would say there is a 50/50 chance.

Q Can you describe for me the typical purchasing habits of someone who buys frozen nutritional foods?

A The consumer tends to buy these items on their regular grocery trips, weekly or biweekly. They tend to buy a lot of them. They happen to have one of the highest buy rates in all of Heinz categories and sometimes all over the store, these consumers buy hundreds of these a year because they are trying to use them to meet their health and wellness goals, so many consumers eat them every single day.

Q In your experience, do the consumers have a particular brand loyalty?

A Loyalty is this category is actually fairly low. Consumers tend to pick the flavor that they like.

Q How would that manifest itself -- if I am a frozen nutritional shopper, how would that manifest itself if I were to go to the grocery store?

A They walk to the section, they are scanning the section for sales, for new items, for the flavors that they like the best, and they grab those and they load up their cart card.

Q What do these products normally sell for?

A In the neighborhood of $2.00 2 to $4.00.

Q Are the prices charged for Lean Cuisine comparable to the prices charged for Smart Ones?

A For like items, yes.

Q Are the prices charged for Healthy Choice comparable to what's charged for Smart Ones?

A Yes.

Q And in your experience, do shoppers take careful consideration of the product that they buy or will they often buy the product on impulse; which way?

A I would say it's probably more impulsive, especially once they know the category.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q Describe for me the general demographic of your target market?

A Tends to be female, more middle aged, likely a little higher income.

Q Is there a particular geographic location for your target market that you find you sell more in certain geographic locations that others?

A No, not for this brand. It's fairly even across the country.

Q As a food product, are Smart Ones products considered to be expensive by the consuming public?

A Not overly expensive, no.

Q Approximately how many Smart Ones products are sold, individual products, on an annual basis?

A In terms of cases, we sell about 27 million cases a year.

Q Do you know how that breaks down into individual boxes, packages?

A 12 boxes per case generally, so I can't do math.

Q How much market share do Smart Ones currently enjoy in the frozen nutritional section?

A We currently have about 33 percent market share in terms of volume.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

MR. FRAELICH: This is going to be confidential, and the transcript going forward is going to be confidential.

(Thereupon, the following pages 36 through 48 contain confidential information, to be held confidential for Court and counsel's eyes only.)

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

BY MR. FRAELICH:

Q Mr. Gray, can you take a look at what's been marked as Opposer's Exhibit 41 and let me know what that is?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 41 was marked for identification.)

A These are several pages that are copies of coupon vehicles for Smart Ones.

Q How are coupons used to support the Smart Ones brand, if you can explain that?

A Coupons are used to drive awareness and trial of new products, they are used to drive loyalty to the Smart Ones brand and they are used to drive buy rate of the Smart Ones brand by asking consumers to perhaps buy more than they normally would because we are giving them a discount.

Q Do the documents which comprise Exhibit 41 appear to be representative samples to you of the coupons that have been issued in connection with the Smart Ones brand?

A Yes, over the course of many years.

[redacted]

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

[redacted]

Q How does Heinz advertise the Smart Ones products?

A Currently, we advertise in a print ad campaign, so in major magazines that our consumer reads, as well as online on various websites we place banner ads, we have advertising on our own website, eatyourbest.com, through social media like Pinterest and Facebook, and we would even consider vehicles like these coupons we have in front of us as advertising vehicles because they also have an advertising message in addition to the coupon.

Q Describe some of the newspapers and magazines, the print media, that Heinz uses to advertise Smart Ones?

A Magazines would include titles like Cooking Light, Real Simple, Grill Simple, Everyday with Rachael Ray, Oprah, major titles.

Q And are these magazines generally directed at a particular target marked?

A They are directed at our demographic.

Q Does Heinz currently do much television advertising for the Smart Ones product?

A Not currently.

Q Why not?

A We found that investment didn't have as high of a return on the investment as other investments, especially with the emerging digital space.

Q What do you mean digital space?

A Leveraging digit vehicles such as our website, social media and other relevant websites.

Q Does Heinz do much radio advertising currently for the Smart Ones brand?

A No, we don't.

Q Why not?

A Again, it's an investment that doesn't return on the investment as well as some of our other vehicles.

Q Why does Heinz use more of the digital space that you just described to advertise Smart Ones now?

A You can be very targeted using digital media all the way down to the individual.

Q How so?

A In some cases, consumers will register with our website, they will ask for the marketing firm from Smart Ones so we know exactly who we are talking to. There are also ways through digital marketing to know what consumers are searching for, what kinds of sites they go to, and we can target them accordingly there.

Q I am going to hand you what's been designated as Opposer's Exhibit 42.

Take a look at that and let me know if you have ever seen that before.

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 42 was marked for identification.)

A Yes, I have.

Q Can you tell me what it is?

A It's several pages that show examples of various marketing activities including banner ads, e-mails, as well as some printed materials, print ads and premium items, all branded Smart Ones.

Q Is there a particular vehicle of that these represent in terms of before they appear, or is it a variety?

A It's a variety of vehicles.

Q Are the advertising vehicles depicted in Exhibit 42 a fair and accurate representation of the advertising that Heinz has done?

A Yes.

Q Do you have a sense from the document as to when these would have been accumulated for purposes of Exhibit 42?

A These are all fairly recent.

Q Let me --

A Within --

A They are actually dated 2010, 2011.

Q How do the current ads for Smart Ones differ from what's depicted in Exhibit 42?

A They are largely very similar.

Q Does Heinz promote its Smart Ones products on a website?

A Yes.

Q What's the name of the website?

A Eatyourbest.com.

Q What type of information is available to customers who go to the eatyourbest.com website?

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

A Product information about all the items that we offer. It includes a community of consumers, about 3 million consumes who converse with each other on that website about the brand, and it also has some lifestyle information.

Q Do you consider the eatyourbest website to be a success or failure?

A A success.

Q Why?

A It has greatly expanded over time to be more than just a static resource. It's now a place where consumers gather to communicate and is definitely a source of information which even includes ratings of our products.

Q How does Heinz use Facebook to promote the Smart Ones brand?

A We have a Facebook page and we place Facebook postings to tell consumers about new product news or perhaps different promotions.

Q Do you consider the Facebook promotion to be a success or a failure?

A Success.

Q Why?

A We have hundreds of thousands of consumers who have liked our page, and we get numerous comments every time we ever post something on Facebook.

Q And you also indicated you use another social media called Pinterest; do I have that right?

A Yes.

Q How do you spell that?

A P-i-n-t-e-r-e-s-t.

Q What is Pinterest?

A It is a newer social media site that is largely focused on visuals, and many of those visuals are food, food and recipes.

Q How do consumers interact with Pinterest?

A Consumers create their own personalized pin boards, and they can scour the site for images they find appealing and re-pin those images to their own pin boards or bring in their own images to introduce to the site.

Q Do you consider Heinz's use of Pinterest as a vehicle for promoting the Smart Ones brand to be a success or a failure?

A A success.

Q Why?

A We just joined Pinterest very recently and we ran two promotions that far exceeded industry benchmarks for interaction from our consumers.

Q The court reporter has handed you what's been marked as 43, and let me know if you can identify what that is for the record?

(Thereupon, Opposer's Exhibit No. 43 was marked for identification.)

A This is a series of printouts of different pages within our eatyourbest.com website.

Q What type of information is available to Smart Ones customers on that eatyourbest website?

A There is a lot of information about our products, images of them, consumer reviews of those products, lifestyle information. There is also a community where consumers can share their own experience and tips.

Q Does this appear to you to be a representation of every page that appears on the eatyourbest website?

A I don't know if it's every page. It's a good representation of the types of pages.

Q Okay. This document indicates that it was pulled from the eatyourbest website June 22nd, 2011; do you see that?

A Yes.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q How does the current eatyourbest website differ from what's represented in Exhibit 43

A The basic infrastructure is the same. Some of the images have been updated with the newer packaging, as well as some of the most recent creative cubicles you would have in the market place.

Q How frequently do you update the eatyourbest.com website?

A Very frequently, it's always being updated

Q Why?

A Because we are constantly adding new products, adding new utility within the website. Whenever we have a change in our ad campaign, we change the imagery.

MR. FRAELICH: There is four more exhibits, and they are all confidential.

The last portion of this transcript is also designated as confidential.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MS. WILBERT:

Q Sounded as if from your job description, you would be somebody who is familiar with the stores in which products bearing the Smart Ones trademark are sold; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Could you please look at the document that's been marked as GFA-1, and particularly, look at page 013408.

Does page 013408 accurately list stores in which products bearing the Smart Ones products are sold?

A Yes.

Q Can you please turn to page 13409. Does page 13409 accurately list three stores in which the Smart Ones products are sold?

A Yes.

Q To summarize the Smart Ones products are sold at SUPERVALU, Safeway and Wal-Mart; correct?

A Yes.

Q Could you please turn to 013457?

Page 013457 again lists some additional stores such as Shaw's, Giant Eagle, Meijer, Kroger, does this page accurately represent stores in which Smart Ones products are sold?

A Yes.

Q Could you please turn to page 013468? This page again lists some additional outlets such as online shopping pea body are these outlets on accurate representation of where Smart Ones products are sold?

A I would say Smart Ones are sold at the grocery banners, I don't believe we are sold at Peapod at this time.

Q Were you in 2011?

A I don't know.

Q Page 013468 also references Ahold; does Ahold currently sell products bearing the Smart Ones trademark?

A Yes.

Q Why is Peapod included in this document if it's not a venue for Smart Ones products?

A This page appears to summarize Ahold, Ahold is a holding company of grocery banners. So when you go into grocery stores, it's not Ahold, it's Stop & Shop or Giant.

This page appears to include Peapod as one of their companies.

ERIC MICHAEL GRAY

Q So of their companies, you are not offered in all their companies, but you are offered in Stop & Shop and Giant?

A Stop & Shop and Giant are brick and mortar grocery stores, Peapod is an online shopping outlet element.

Q Are any Smart Ones products offered in any online shopping outlets?

A I don't believe so.

Q Earlier today, Ms. Hudson testified that Promark was not aware of any instances of confusion between products bearing the Smart Balance trademark and products bearing the Smart Ones trademark; are you aware of any instances of confusion between those two marks?

A I am not.

Q Are you aware of any instances of actual confusion between products bearing a Smart Ones trademark and any other products bearing any smart mark?

A No particular cases come to mind specifically of any product bearing a smart mark.

Q Could you turn to the exhibit stack and look at the examples of some of the smart products that were introduced earlier today such as Carb Smart, Smart Water, Prego HeartSmart.

Are you aware of any instances of actual confusion with any of the exhibits that were marked earlier today?

A No, I am not.

Q In your testimony today, you touched on the website that promotes the Smart Ones product and trademark; is that a website that you are involved in controlling the content of?

A Yes.

Q Do the products identified on the website accurately reflect products sold under the Smart Ones trademark?

A Yes.

Q Is this website a mechanism through which Heinz uses to communicate with customers through its ordinary course of business?

A Yes.

Q And the information about the Heinz Smart Ones products is truthful and accurate; correct?

A Yes.

Q And you, yourself, in fact, rely on the website as a way to communicate information to potential customers; correct?

A Yes.

Q Could you please turn to Exhibit 37? Exhibit 37 is a grouping of current packaging.

Do the ingredients included on the product packages accurately reflect the ingredients in the products bearing the Smart Ones trademark?

A Yes.

Q For example, based on Exhibit 37, the Smart Ones products contain products such as oils?

A I would assume so, yes.

Q So to the extent it identifies corn oil, hydrogenated soybean oil or olive oils, those would be accurate descriptions of the product included?

A If those are included on the ingredients stated, yes.

Q And the ingredients would also include things such as milk when milk is identified on the product package?

A Yes.

Q If you look at Exhibit 37a and turn to the second page, on the right-hand side of the second page it looks like there is a date that says May-12; what does that date mean?

A To be honest, I am not positive.

Q Was this packaging used in May of 2012?

MR. FRAELICH: Objection, asked and answered.

A I can assume that it was used in 2012 because if you refer to the best if used by date, it's two years after the production date, which is 2014.

Q When did Smart Ones launch its new product packaging?

A It's been in the marketplace approximately two years. It flowed through SKU by SKU, so it was over the course of several months.

Q Did you take over for Ms. Findlay in your current position?

A No, I did not.

Q What is your relationship to Ms. Findlay in your current position?

A Ms. Findlay plays a role on our Smart Ones team as a liaison with licensees, so with Weight Watchers Company, as well as other licensees in Heinz Company.

Q How does your role interact with hers?

A In instances where we need to get product approvals or for placing marketing materials with Weight Watchers, all of that relationship is managed by Ms. Findlay.

Q Okay.

MS. WILBERT: I am done.

MR. FRAELICH: He will read and sign.

1/4 cup fat-free egg substitute

2 tablespoons water

1. Cook Smart Ones® according to package directions; let cool.
2. Preheat oven to 425° F. Spray baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray.
3. Cut off about 1/2" from each end of eggplant. Cut eggplant lengthwise into 6 slices, each about 3/4" thick.
4. In shallow bowl, combine bread crumbs and cheese. In separate shallow bowl, beat together egg substitute and water. One at a time, dip eggplant slices into egg mixture, then into bread crumb mixture, turning to coat both sides. Arrange breaded eggplant slices in a single layer on prepared baking sheet.
5. Bake eggplant until browned on bottom, 20-25 minutes. Using spatula, turn slices over; bake until well browned on both sides, 15-20 minutes longer. Remove eggplant from oven; reduce oven temperature to 375° F.
6. In a 9 1/2" x 7 1/2" x 2 1/2" baking dish, arrange 3 eggplant slices in a single layer with edges touching; gently spread 1 package of Smart Ones® over eggplant, evenly distributing cheese. Top with another layer of eggplant, then remaining package of Smart Ones®. Bake, covered, until heated through and bubbly around the edges, 25-30 minutes. Remove from oven; let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Makes 4 servings; each serving provides 6 POINTS®

This fun and fancy salad will have you feeling you're on vacation each time you take a bite. Be sure the salad greens are well washed and dried so dressing adheres; you won't want to miss a single drop!

2 packages Weight Watchers® Smart Ones® Main Street Bistro Bowl Selections™ Chicken & Vegetables Caribbean

1/4 cup fat-free raspberry vinaigrette salad dressing (any fat-free fruit-flavored dressing may be substituted)

1/2 head romaine lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces

1/2 head red leaf lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces

2 cups cherry tomatoes, cut into halves, or grape tomatoes

1 medium red, green, or yellow bell pepper (or a combination of colors), seeded and cut into strips

1/2 cup raspberries or similar berry

1 medium peach or nectarine, pitted and thinly sliced

Create a Smart Lifestyle with Mindful Food Choices

Surely you know people whose lives revolve around their ability to eat healthy – whether they've been "good" or "bad." This may even describe you. The problem is that structuring your life this way may take away from you truly enjoying it. Eating in a way that supports a healthy lifestyle should be integrated into the various aspects of your life instead of being the main focus.

At home

Stock your kitchen so that it's easy for you to make smart food choices. Give your pantry a makeover by getting rid of foods that are too tempting or tucking them away in a far corner. Stock up on foods and ingredients that you need for healthful meals, such as canned beans, brown rice, whole wheat pasta, pasta sauce, cereal, and other non-perishables. Also, try limiting your selection of snack foods, as Penn State researchers found that more variety can lead to eating more. Have plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables in the refrigerator, but make sure to buy smaller amounts of perishable items such as berries and baby lettuce. Lastly, stock your freezer with prepared meals, chicken, meat, frozen vegetable assortments, and other meal supplies.

At work

Develop your lunch and snack style around the food that is available at work. If the cafeteria has plenty of non-greasy, veggie-packed choices like salads and soups, you may want to buy your lunch. If your choices consist of burgers, mayonnaise-laden salads, sandwiches, and fried foods, bringing your lunch is your best option. Use freezer packs and an insulated bag to keep your meal cold, unless you have access to a refrigerator and/or freezer. Bring a healthy and filling snack that combines fruits or vegetables, a protein such as cheese or peanut butter, and whole grain foods such as pita wedges or crackers. When coworkers bring in goodies, develop your own personal strategy for managing the amount that you consume. Limiting or avoiding such treats is the best approach!

At a restaurant

Smart diners do their homework ahead of time and ask plenty of questions. Look for a posted menu online so that you can start thinking about what to order before you go to the restaurant. Depending on the restaurant, calorie information may even be available on the menu. At the restaurant, ask for as much detail as you need regarding how a dish is prepared, how big the portion is, and what side dishes are included. Inquire about substitutions such as a salad (dressing on the side) instead of fries, grilled instead of sautéed, and wine-based sauce rather than cream sauce. Your meal may not come out exactly as you pictured, so take a deep breath, de-stress, and do the best you can. Make adjustments to the next day's meals if you think you overate and remember to keep up your activity to help maintain that healthy lifestyle!

Healthy Eating Experts

When it comes to healthy living, sometimes you need a little advice. That's where our panel of experts comes in!

Mindy Hermann

Hi, I'm Mindy Hermann and I'm all about eating well to stay healthy rather than just to lose weight. From my days as "Good Morning America's" on-air nutritionist to my contributions to the American Medical Association's Family Health Cookbook, one of my favorite things to do is share the knowledge I've gained as a registered dietitian with others.

I love to cook foods from around the world and am pretty good at tinkering with recipes to create dishes that are healthy and also taste great. Breakfast is an every day meal for me – I couldn't get through my busy morning without it! Get to know me and you'll hear the ins and outs of a healthy lifestyle and how you can live longer, better.

I'm dietician Ida Laquatra and I'm no stranger to healthy living or hectic lifestyles. I am dedicated to helping people eat well and live healthily. In fact, a few years ago, Pennsylvania named me its Outstanding Dietician of the Year.

At home with my teenage daughter, I usually only have time for a glass of orange juice or skim milk before heading out the door, but always keep a box of oatmeal at my desk or string cheese in the fridge to start the morning off with a nutritious and convenient breakfast. I'm excited to share my insights with the masses and teach Community members the value of good nutrition.
